Publications and Research Contributions

Monographs

4. Mennonite Metaphysics: Social Critique Out of the Sources of the Radical Reformation. Theopolitical Visions Series. Eugene, OR: Cascade, under contract.

3. Critique of Conspiracism: Critical Theory, Religion, and the Limits of Conspiratorial Reason. Conspiracy Theories Series. London: Routledge, under contract. [Submission in 2026.]

Description: What is the relationship between conspiratorial thinking and critique? How do conspiracy theories – albeit in distorted and blindered ways – mirror the hermeneutics of suspicion found elsewhere in critical theory and even ‘critical thinking’? Most importantly, how can the all-encompassing epistemology of conspiracism be challenged and resisted without the simplistic use of forcible critique against another version of itself, and without false equivocations between conspiracism and critique? Critique of Conspiracism provides a detailed treatment of these questions without ceding ground to the oversimplifications of conspiratorial thinking and without taking up a patronizing distance from the very human desire to see the world in conspiratorial terms.

In three chapters, this study argues that only by combining insights from three discourses and paradigms – Critical Theory, Political Theology, and Internal Family Systems – can conspiracism be successfully critiqued without falling into the numerous epistemological deadlocks that characterize this unique social pathology. Intervening simultaneously in the domain of reason (using contemporary critical theories in the tradition of the Frankfurt School), the sphere of religion (using the scholarly study of religion and critical forms of Political Theology), and the therapeutic endeavor (using the modality of Internal Family Systems), Critique of Conspiracism provides concrete suggestions for responding to conspiracy theorists while avoiding the pitfalls of withdrawal into moral abstinence (‘who am I to judge?’) and the retaliatory use of persuasive force (fact-checking and debunking).

2. Ontologies of Violence: Deconstruction, Pacifism, and Displacement. Political and Public Theologies Series no. 4. Leiden: De Gruyter Brill, 2023. 250 pp. <https://brill.com/display/title/64885>

Description: Ontologies of Violence provides a new paradigm for understanding the concept of violence through comparative interpretations of French philosopher Jacques Derrida, philosophical theologians in the Mennonite pacifist tradition, and Grace M. Jantzen’s feminist philosophy of religion. By drawing out and challenging the remarkably similar priorities shared by its three sources, and by challenging the assumption that differences necessarily lead to displacement, Ontologies of Violence provides a critical theory of violence by treating it as a diagnostic concept that implies the violation of value-laden boundaries.

1. Postsecular History: Political Theology and the Politics of Time. Radical Theologies and Philosophies Series, no. 27. Cham, Switzerland: Palgrave Macmillan, 2022. (Hardcover 2022, Softcover 2023). <https://link.springer.com/book/9783030857578>

Description: This book explores how contemporary approaches to the meaning of time and history follow patterns that are simultaneously political and theological. Even after the postsecular critiques of Christianity, religion, and secularity, many influential divisions of time and history continue to be formed by providential narratives that mediate between experience and expectation in movements from promise to fulfilment. In response to the persistence of theological influence within ostensibly secular ways of understanding time and history, Postsecular History revisits and revises the concept of periodization by tracing powerful efforts to divide time into past, present, and future, and by critiquing historical partitions between the Reformation and Enlightenment. Developing a critique of theopolitical periodization in six chapters, Postsecular History questions how relations of possession, novelty, freedom, and instrumentality implied in the prefix ‘post’ are reproduced in the discourse on the postsecular and the field of political theology.
